

What makes a good FCCLA adviser? Good chapter advisers work hard to see that their students receive many benefits of membership, and that the experience is a positive one. These advisers are the ones that stay late with students; give up personal or family time to go to meetings and activities; help with STAR Events; or just listen to their chapter members concerns. To many members, these advisers may seem like a part of their extended family.

The advisers that go “above and beyond” for their FCCLA members deserve additional recognition. All advisers nominated will receive a letter of acknowledgment, and those selected as award winners will be recognized on the various Missouri FCCLA social media sites and during the annual State Leadership Conference. A selection committee appointed by the State Executive Council will determine the number of award recipients.

Eligibility

All nominees must be current FCCLA advisers and family and consumer sciences teachers

Qualifications

Nomination may be made by a local FCCLA chapter president, officer or member

All nominations must be completed by January 15

Information included in the nomination materials must reflect activities for the current school year.

The award is not based on years of advising, but on the positive impact of the adviser on the local chapter for the current school year. Both new and experienced advisers are eligible to be nominated.
